

Be a Part of the Biggest Choral Event in Sacramento History!

We're looking for four marketing partners, as well as sponsors and advertisers.

The Sacramento Valley Choral Coalition

The Sacramento Valley Choral Coalition was formed in 2013 for the purpose of producing SacSings! - The Sacramento Choral Festival. And seeing that project to a successful conclusion is the single focus of our inaugural year. However, we see our eventual mission as something much larger: promoting choral singing throughout our area through cooperation among choruses at all levels: school, college, church, children's and adult independent.

Our intention is to eventually convert to a membership organization that, through a strong community connection, will foster public support of choral singing and broaden public participation in choral activities. To that end we have organized as a nonprofit California corporation, under fiscal sponsorship of the Friends of the Metropolitan Arts Commission while we pursue 501(c)(3) status. SacSings! - The Sacramento Choral Festival is only the beginning.

From the Executive Director

Richard Frantzreb

There are dozens of choral groups in our area, and as editor of the Sacramento Choral Calendar (sacchoralcalendar.com), I have personally heard them all. And I have been impressed - even delighted - with what I have heard. Now you can be delighted too.

SacSings! will present the best work of more than 20 excellent choruses over a single weekend, the first step to broadening public appreciation of and participation in the wide variety of choral music in our area. I am as excited as I can be to play a part in bringing great music to a larger audience.

Dick Frantzreb is a life-long singer. He ran his own editing and publishing business for 25 years, before retiring in 2004.

An Idea Whose Time Has Come

There are dozens of independent choruses in the Sacramento Valley - and a few that are widely known, drawing thousands to their concerts each year.

But what of the rest?

Their excellent work is known and appreciated only by small groups of dedicated followers - but generally out of the public eye. It's time for them to take center-stage.

In July 2013 all the independent choruses in the Sacramento Valley were invited to a meeting to explore the possibility of a local choral festival, to take place over the weekend of June 13-15, 2014 at the Harris Center at Folsom Lake College.

The response was overwhelmingly enthusiastic. Now the Sacramento public will have the opportunity to hear and see a remarkable showcase of local talent: over 20 choruses performing joint concerts in one place and over a single weekend. Prepare to be delighted - and surprised.

See our website, www.SacSings.org for more information about each chorus.
